

EXPECTS ATTENDANCE AT WORLD SERIES TO BREAK AHL RECORDS

New York, Oct. 2.—New attendance and gate receipts records are not unlikely in the coming world's series between the Philadelphia Nationals and the Boston Americans. Much will depend, of course, upon the length of the series and the amount of interest displayed by the fans of the two pennant winning cities. If the struggle for the championship is close and continues for six or seven games there is no question but that new figures will be established in these departments thus adding greatly to the satisfaction of players and managers.

The selection of the new park of the Boston National league club as the scene of the games to be played in Boston opens the way for greatly increased attendance for the Braves stadium will accommodate fully 50,000 spectators. It is the latest and the largest enclosure devoted to baseball and in offering it to the Red Sox, President Gaffney is but reciprocating the courtesy extended to his club by the President Lannin last season when the Braves played and won the world's championship in the Boston American league park.

If the Philadelphia Nationals were the possessors of a field with anything like the seating capacity of the Red Sox' temporary home the attendance figures would in all probability soar above 300,000. Since the Phillies park will hold but 20,000 after extra stands have been erected the National league representatives will be badly handicapped in their attempt to keep pace with the Boston gate. Should the series go but four games as was the case a year ago the attendance would be 100,000 for Boston and 40,000 for Philadelphia. This total would be a new record for a four game series since the Braves-Athletic series of 1914 drew 111,000. If the full seven games should be required to decide the title, with four played in Boston and three in Philadelphia and the teams play to park capacity, the total attendance would surpass 250,000. The record to date is 251,901 made in the 1912 series between the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants, when eight games were played before the Red Sox won the championship.

Under almost any conditions it is reasonable to assume that close to 200,000 spectators will witness the play for the 1915 title, thus bringing the grand total for the world's series under the control of the national commission up to 1,600,000 in round figures. Since the first contest under this regime in 1903 eleven series have been played with a total of sixty-four games and an attendance of 1,395,567. To these figures must be added the attendance at the earlier matches of which few accurate records exist.

Will Run Against Husband

(New York Sun.)
Bloomfield, N. J.—Mrs. Raymond E. Davis, whose husband is town clerk, is so certain woman suffrage will triumph at the special election next October that she is planning to oppose her husband for office.
"My husband and myself are both suffragists," she said. "When women receive their right to vote, which they will on October 19, I will run against my husband for the office of town clerk so as to keep the position in the family."
Mrs. Davis is acting town clerk while her husband is confined to his home with injuries to his foot suffered accidentally while bathing at Lake Hopatcong.

A QUEER PREDICAMENT

County Officials Put Up Office to Lowest Bidder.

(The Morganton Messenger.)
We doubt if the citizens of Burke, as a whole, know that there is no official in the county who is authorized by law to receive and receipt for money that may be due the county from outside sources, yet such is the case. The last legislature abolished the office of treasurer and the only provision made was for the commissioners to secure, if they could, some bank or trust company to act as financial agent in the performance of duties of the treasurer without pay. This could not be done. As a consequence, under the provisions of the act bids for the office will be received by the board of county commissioners next Monday from those who desire to act as treasurer, and the lowest responsible bidder will get the job. Isn't this a pretty state of affairs? Just who is responsible, we do not know, but, for a great county like Burke this is going some.

YALE OUTPLAYED BY VIRGINIANS

New Haven, Oct. 2.—Outplayed offensively and defensively Yale met an unexpected defeat here today from the well balanced eleven of the University of Virginia which scored ten in the final quarter.
Yale fumbled a lateral pass near the blue goal and a Virginia man fell on the ball for a touch down. Thurman of Virginia, later kicked a field goal from the forty yard line.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

Cleveland, O.—"What's your name?" asked the street repair department timekeeper of a worker. "I Wonder," the man replied. "Don't kid me, what's your name?" "I Wonder, I Wonder." The man's name was Hy Wonder.

Richmond, Mo.—Mrs. Catherine Roberts, 76 years old, was troubled with swollen gums. A few days later, the edges of a new set of teeth, her third, appeared. Shortly she will have a complete set.

Martins Ferry, O.—Near the Riverside Bridge company's factory a houseboat, loaded with pretty young vacationists, was moored. But when the girls began to dip their toes in the water every day, in garbs described as "close to nature," the workmen in the factory threw down their tools and spent their time in the windows and on the roofs of the building watching the antics of the fair bathers. Now the bridge company is suing to compel to girls to move their houseboat.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—On the same day, Eva Jackson found a sister from whom she had been separated for twenty years; helped to celebrate the twenty-first birthday of Charles P. Olmstead, and then to cap the climax, married him. The sister is the wife of Arthur Brewer, a friend of Olmstead, through whom the sisters traced their kinship.

Dallas, Tex.—Tweet! Tweet! Every time Miss Esther Hoffman, beautiful young society girl of this town, takes a step, her pet canary sings. She carries the bird everywhere with her, dangling from her hand in a dainty cage.

Temple, Tex.—Esther Grant, 11-years old, is the mother of a 7-pound baby girl. She is supposed to be the youngest mother known to medical science. Her stepfather, being held in jail for the crime, committed suicide.

Fulfilling Conditions.
Miser Thorpe's brother died and left the miser a legacy on condition that he put up a hundred-dollar tombstone over him suitably inscribed, says The Chicago News.

The miser ordered the hundred-dollar tombstone—there was no getting around that—but he was determined to save on the inscription. The stone-cutter proposed:
"Here lies the corp
Of Joseph Thorpe."
But this the miser refused as too long. He cut it down to read—
"Thorpe's Corpse."

Full Speed Ahead.

He was the slowest boy on earth, and had been sacked at three places in two weeks, so his parents had apprenticed him to a naturalist. But even he found him slow. It took him two hours to give the canaries their feed, three to stick a pin through a dead butterfly, and four to pick a convolvulus. The only point about him was that he was willing.

"And what," he asked, having spent a whole afternoon changing the goldfishes' water, "shall I do now, sir?" The naturalist ran his fingers through his locks.

"Well, Robert," he replied at length, "I think you might now take the tortoise out for a run."—Christian Register.
